The New Orleans Times of Thursday
says:

In comparing last evening our receipts of cotton from the 1st instant with last year's, we set down the former at 12,348.

In comparing last evening our receipts of cotton from the 1st instant with last year's, we set down the former at 12,348.

In comparing last evening our receipts have greatly reduced the difference, the receipts proper amounting to 4000 bales, and in the same day in last September, making the total since the last instant 1834 on the same day in last September, making the total since the last instant 14,004 bales, against 25,659. The receipts for the rest of the month last year were about 15,000 bales, and if during the enuing eight days we get two-thirds of that smountil it will make a total for the month of about 27,000 bales, and if during the receipts at the other delivering ports ax.

In the last year, the receipts at the other delivering ports ax.

In this is a naterial increase. During last week, for example, they embraced 342; bales at Mobile, against 333 last year; 8751 at Savannah, against 402; 4812 at Charleston, gainst 383; 1199 in North Carolina and Virginia, against 202; 4812 at Charleston, making a total of 20,110 against 9021. The copious receipts at the Atlantic ports are ascribed to favorable weather for pleking, and should not be regarded as indicative of the crop in the serious tributary districts any more than our short receipts are of the crop in the stributary districts any more than our short receipts are of the crop in the Mississiply valley. Unless shipments are provented by low water in the tributaries we may exceed beavier receipts.
